Revd. Sir:

Having long left Sweaford I have but just received your note.

The Transactions of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, at the last meeting but one at Oxford (some where about 1848) contain a Report of mine on the Language of Africa.

This is the nearest approach of anything of mine to a work on Ethnography

Latham

Philology, and it is incomplete.
The African Report was meant to be one of a series
— as, indeed, it is; though the series has not advanced.
By Comparative Philology
we signify Ethnological. I have written, however, no work which sets, at once, Ethno-graphical, Philological, & Comparative.

I have the honor to remain Reverend Sir
Your obedient
R. S. Latham
